Mental Health: the attention it deserves

The World Health Organisation says that by 2020 depression will be the leading cause of disability worldwide. Bringing mental health issues into the spotlight is helping, but more needs to be done to prevent and effectively manage a wide range of mental disorders and illnesses.

Australian Rotary Health has long been an ambassador for mental health. We've directed close to $27 million towards health research since 1981.

The burden of mental illness costs Australians $3.3 million a year. To reduce this burden, Australian Rotary Health is now focusing on the mental health of young people.

You can make a difference by donating today to help improve the mental health of Australia's young people. It's devastating to know that today, more than one in four people aged between 12 and 25 will be affected by a mental problem in any given year. In fact, it is estimated that approximately 750 000 young people's mental health needs are not currently being met. These young people are our future and deserve the support that research can provide.

To find out more about our research or to donate, please visit www.australianrotaryhealth.org.au or call 02 8837 1900.
