Welcome to our Club and to Rotary.

Our guest speaker was Sarah Watterson,

Vocational Educational and Training Manager, who is involved with adult training through a community college. With Federal funding she is able to commence the training of young people in terms of readiness to enter the work place as well as work ethic.

Through this training young people are able to gain a Certificate III in National work force accredited training that is handy for a young person's CV.

Sarah, through meetings with focus groups, was able to speak of several needs in many communities including reviewing of progress with youth opportunities, individual business assistance, marketing tools for management and tourism enhancing experiences.

Sarah spoke of the needs for a regional stock taking of talents and skills that are available within each community. This could form the basis of a 'human library' of skills and talents physically available within a community.

Each community has a "brand" that they could use to advertise a community more fully to the wider public including tourists. The meeting provoked a good discussion about the development of this area.

Thank You Robin Cantrill for the guest speaker's article in this Bulletin and the local Times.

End of report.

Found a new vocation, Italian laundry delivery, but which one will do the driving? Our vote was Wayne, wonder why?!

This was taken in Monterosso in Cinque Terre, quick drop off of laundry which was then delivered to our hotel later that evening.

We are now in Barcelona where we will leave Rosa and Wayne who are going on to France.

Simon and I fly out for home on Thursday.
