Guest speaker Eleanor Drury spoke on how the Everyone's Perfect movement launched at the end of 2016 it was a hard year for both staff and students at UHS. Looking for the positive's after the suicide of a local teacher, then Eleanor heard rumours of girls starving themselves and worried about their body image before a swimming carnival. The Everyone's Perfect movement goal is for students to create a positive image about themselves. To be comfortable with their body image.

The Everyone's Perfect started at the beginning of 2017 through social network. Through promotion, showing positive body image, in yourself, thinking positive instead of negative.

Speaking to Year 7, splitting into groups spoke to the students, on challenges of going from year 6 to Year 7 and the pressure from a going from a small group to a large group and issues around changing schools.

The students from all areas of UHS including students from Special Education and SRC are involved in the program. Showing all students that they be part of Everyone Perfect movement.

This year saw the launch of the Inspiration awards with over 200 students have been nominated for this award. Share the care, encouraging students to ask other students if they are OK, along with creating cards with inspirational quotes are just some of the strategies that students are encouraged to do.

Hoping more people in the community to be involved in movement. Prompting to everyone to be grateful for what you have instead of what brand you are wearing. One goal is to get more males involved in the movement.

Eleanor is amazed at how the Everyone's Perfect campaign has grown over the last year and a half. Creating support groups in the school, community, to enable the continuing of Everyone's Perfect movement for the future.
